Kim's game

Children love hiding objects. This is a great memory game and helps children to count 1:1.

What you need:

- A tray
- A towel
- 10 objects from around the house

What to do:

Collect 10 objects together from around your house. Name them as you collect them with your child. Pop them on to the tray and encourage your child to name them. Cover the tray with a towel and ask your child to close their eyes. Remove an object and hide it behind your back. Take the towel off. Count the objects left. Which one has gone?

Questions to ask……

- Name the objects on thr tray.
- What do we use them for?
- How many are left?
- Can you guess which I have taken?

How many objects are on my tray today?
